H&G has been a partner to the building industry for over 60 years. We supply tradies, builders, and serious renovators with the widest range of quality products, services, and advice. You could say, when it comes to building and renovating, we are the real deal.

Knowing about building is part of our DNA – and we can help you become an expert, too.

From plumbing to tapware, concrete to timber, we supply everything to build someone's dream from the ground up. But that's not all we build.

By joining our team, you'll be working on constructing a career that's fast-paced, no two days the same, and constantly challenging – just like our industry.
